GLOBAL

HEALTHPROGRAM

Undergraduate degrees in the Global Health Program (Bachelor of Arts and Minor) provide students with an in-depth understanding of factors related to illness, health, and healing from a comparative and interdisciplinary perspective that transcends national borders and regional interests and takes cultural difference and diversity fully into account.

The Global Health Program (GHP) is designed to be intellectually comprehensive, integrating the social sciences, biological sciences, and humanities. Students will combine academic and experiential learning, striking a balance between acquisition of hard skills, critical thinking, and real world knowledge.

An important feature of the program is a Global Health Field Experience at a research, service, or clinical site either in the United States or abroad, which for majors culminates in a capstone seminar and senior thesis.

The GHP's unique research and writing opportunities make both the BA and Minor excellent preparation for medical and graduate school, and for careers in health sciences, research and teaching, service-providing organizations, government agencies, or law.

UCSD Students for Global Health is a Student Organization for students passionate about Global Health issues and interested in contributing to the Global Health community on the UCSD Campus.
